DANGER FROM FICTION.
A Reilly Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles.

Thyodine is not heralded as a wonder discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine; neither is it claimed to cure any specific dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles with which nine out of ten suffer.

Thyodine is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable and fruit essences, pure ascorbic (government test), golden seal distillate. The tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive power of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the principle contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the walls like after dinner pills and cheap charlatans, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion it will very soon recover its normal vigor, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy, practically unknown a few years ago and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

"This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive pure and simple because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is promptly digested."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely, so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack and unless that lack is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills" and cathartics which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores and, as regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merits better than any other argument.

OLIVER MURDER TRIAL.

Evidence All in and a Decision Will Be Reached To-day.

Judge Garnett will deliver his instructions in the morning. J. N. Stubbs, for the defense, and Commonwealth's Attorney Brister, for the prosecution, will probably close the argument in the afternoon and the jury may bring in their decision before night. It is very generally believed that the prisoner is guilty of murder in the first degree, but the fact that Oliver is a one-armed man, and that the deed was evidently unpremeditated may effect the decision of the jurors.

AGED FATHER ON STAND REVEALS NOTHING NEW

Gray-Haired Parent of Mabel Page Principal Witness at Murder Trial.

(By Associated Press.)
CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Jan. 5.—Edward Page, the father of Mabel Page, for whose murder Charles L. Tucker is on trial, was the principal witness to-day.

Page, who is 74 years of age, told his tale in a faltering voice. Several times he broke down completely. Throughout the recital the accused man sat in a chair, listening intently to the old man's story.

Mr. Page's testimony related entirely to his own movements on the day of the murder and to what occurred in the house up to the moment of his discovery of the body. His story added nothing to the known facts in the case.

Attorney James L. Vahoy, for the defense, cross-examined Mr. Page. Mr. Vahoy explained to Mr. Page that he would be obliged to ask him a pointed question in order that the question and answer might be put on record. His question was:

"The old man drew himself up to his fullest height. His face reddened with anger and he did not speak again."

Page said that he never had seen Tucker until after he was in the custody of the police.

DINNER TO THE BAR ASSOCIATION

MOTION AGAIN TO DISCHARGE JURY

have done the burning. Woodbridge had said to witness that he thought one man ought to own both farms, referring to prisoner's farm and farm upon which were situated the burned buildings. Witness said Charlie Forbes, who is jointly indicted with Woodbridge, told him that Woodbridge could not tell anything on him, which would not also be against Woodbridge. This statement was not allowed by the court to go to the jury.

A Pathetic Witness.

Nancy Morgan, an old-time colored woman, whose testimony at the previous trial caused much amusement, and is quite a character, was the next witness. She was one of the three persons in the burning when the buildings were burned, and the other two persons were her aged employer, John S. Forbes, and his daughter, Miss Jane.

A Merchant's Testimony.

Mr. Payne, a merchant, testified that he had a conversation with Woodbridge the day of the burning of Forbes, and Woodbridge said that the man who did the burning had murdered Mr. Forbes, and that he ought to be hung for it.

At a conversation at Dick Forbes's, witness expressed opinion that Charlie Forbes did the burning. Woodbridge said: No, Charlie did not do it, and to show how he stood, he would say that if Charlie did it, he did it to get money.

Witness told prisoner that he had heard it suggested that if Charlie Forbes did the burning that Woodbridge had part in it.

Subsequent to witness telling Woodbridge that he was suspected of the burning, Woodbridge said that he wished for square miles of that county could be sunk in hell and he would be willing to go with it.

Witness said to Woodbridge that witness did not feel that way, as he himself had nothing to do with the burning. To this Woodbridge made no reply.

At this point the Commonwealth rested, but with leave to introduce later a witness who was not present.

One hour and a half was granted defense for the preparation of their evidence.

cution, was recalled by Mr. Flood, and asked as to what he said about the sending of a telegram at Appomattox by himself and Andie Forbes on Sunday, May the 22d, and if the two together did not get the telegram sent. Morgan denied knowing the contents of the message.

Watch Night Train.

John J. Beira, agent and operator at Appomattox, was called by the defense to impeach Morgan, and was asked if Andie Forbes and Charlie Morgan came to his office on Sunday, May the 22d. He stated that a Mr. Forbes and Mr. Morgan (did not know what Mr. Morgan came into his office and wanted to send a telegram to Lynchburg. The message was to watch the night train and arrest Charlie Forbes. Charlie Morgan was called before the witness and identified as the person who sent the message. His memory was accurate about the sending of the message. Witness was prepared to say that Morgan knew the contents of the message.

The examination of Elkin Agoo had begun when Mr. Hubbard interrupted the proceedings and asked the court to send the jury out, and hear the evidence of J. J. Morgan, as to the incompetency of one of the jurors.

Witness was asked as to any statement he had heard by Juror Venable as to his opinion of circumstantial evidence, and stated that Venable said the train said in speaking of the Woodbridge and McCue cases, that he did not believe in hanging a man on circumstantial evidence. Further, that he did not believe in circumstantial evidence.

Poll the Jury.

The court then announced that he would bring the jury in and poll them. Morgan was then put on the stand, and stated that he was on the Southern train and this gentleman here (identifying Venable) said that he did not believe in hanging on circumstantial evidence; that he did not believe in circumstantial evidence; that he stated that he had been summoned as a juror in the Woodbridge case.

The witness is a traveling man, and a nephew of John S. Forbes, whose buildings were burned.

Witness said this occurred sometime between the 1st and 10th of December.

George Morris was then placed upon the stand and repeated what he had previously testified to in the case. Venable, a member of the jury, had said in his house that he would not hang a man on circumstantial evidence.

Juror Venable remembered being on Southern Railway and having talked with Mr. G. S. Wing, and his whole conversation was upon the McCue case. He had often said he wouldn't hang on circumstantial evidence unless the case was made very clear. Did not recall Morgan stating to him that he ought not to serve on this case.

Lonsford Butcher, a juror, was put on the stand; on yesterday had conversation with Mr. Venable. Venable said: "Butcher, old boy, I am afraid I ought not to be on this jury."

The jury was then sent out, and Mr. E. W. Hubbard then asked that Juror Venable be withdrawn and another juror put in his place.

This motion was eloquently and forcibly opposed by the attorney for the defense, Congressman Flood and Mr. William Lancaster and Attorney Aubrey Strode, of Amherst, who is aiding in the prosecution, then in an able, eloquent and forcible speech, insisted on the discharge of the jury.

At the end of the argument the court decided to take time to consider the motion for dismissal of the jury.

Juror Venable asked permission to address the court, and said he would like to say to the jury, that he was not on his duty, and that he wished to say this to the court, lawyers, and to the people of Farmville, Va.

The court then said that it had not intended by the course it had pursued to reflect upon the character of Mr. Venable.

Mr. Venable is a man of high standing in the county, and it is believed that the remarks he made, if any, about not convicting on circumstantial evidence were idle talk.
